

PCRN Membership Benefits

ENHANCE your career and credibility with access to AIIHPC's expertise in palliative care research, education & practice, and policy & engagement in palliative care on the island of Ireland and internationally.

As a PCRN member, we support your research and funding proposals by:

- Identifying relevant academic and clinical researchers for your proposals from our partners and beyond to ensure multidisciplinary engagement and clinical relevance
- Supporting the involvement of AIIHPC's Voices4Care group (made up of people with life-limiting conditions, family carers and interested citizens) for PPI engagement
- Supporting your engagement with policymakers, service providers, service commissioners, and key stakeholders through meetings and events to ensure that your research can impact policy and practice
- Highlighting your research and publications through dedicated pages on The Palliative Hub Professional website

CONNECT with a community of leading academic and clinical researchers on the island of Ireland who are at the forefront of international research in palliative care.

As a member we support networking and collaboration by:

- Hosting a range of events where you can engage with other members and other key stakeholders, such as our Annual PCRN Symposium, along with other interdisciplinary seminars, to which you will have prioritised free access
- Introducing you to members within and outside your specific research area including hosting online and face-to-face meetings when required
- Providing opportunities for you to share your research and expertise to foster collaboration and networking, such as through the established PCRN Webinar Series, Research Blogs, Annual PCRN Symposium, Palliative Care Week and customised events

ACCESS capacity building opportunities, which will give you the tools and skills to apply your knowledge and make an impact.

As a member we support your own competence development by:

- Hosting face-to-face and online events led by experts to support your skills development, such as in digital communications skills, and implementation science and areas of interest identified by our members, to which you have prioritised free access
- Providing playback content, videos from events you may have missed and podcasts, on The Palliative Hub Professional website and eLearning modules, such as developing a dissemination strategy for research on The Learning Platform with free access

KNOW palliative care inside-out with timely access to news and insight.

As a member you receive:

- The PCRN monthly update, a tailored information bulletin on events, funding, opportunities, publications of interest, and other insights for our members on all things related to palliative care research that is available to PCRN members only
- Regular and timely updates on items of interest including invitations to events in research, as well as all other AllHPC events across education and practice and policy and engagement with free prioritised access to AllHPC events and reduced rates for EAPC international conferences
